NEWS RELEASE
Date: November 2015

New Chair for AGN International

At AGN's World Congress in Vancouver, October 23rd 2015, Liam McQuaid commenced a 2 year term as Chairman of AGN International Ltd, and Randy Redwitz retired by rotation from the post.

Liam is managing partner of Duignan Carthy O'Neill in Dublin, Ireland. He has 35 years experience in audit, accounting and business consulting, with specialist expertise in auditing and insolvency, including court liquidations. He joined Duignan Carthy O'Neill in 1980 after working with KPMG in Dublin. Liam has experience across a wide range of industries including pension funds, financial services, agribusiness, security, leisure, pharmaceutical, printing, wholesale grocery, charities and other not-for-profits.

Liam also acts as director for a number of client companies and holds technical advisory roles with the Irish Institute of Chartered Accountants and the Financial Reporting Council.

AGN CEO Malcolm Ward said: "Our great thanks go to Randy Redwitz for a truly outstanding contribution to AGN during his 2 year term as International Chairman. Liam McQuaid will be a formidable successor, and his experience speaks for itself. We are all looking forward to Liam's chairmanship at this exciting time of progress and development for AGN."
