

Tom McNulty is the Principal and Managing Director of ValueScope’s Houston Office where his responsibilities include financial consulting, valuation analysis, transaction and dispute advisory, and expert testimony. In addition, Mr. McNulty serves as ValueScope’s Energy Practice Leader.

Tom is one of the nation’s foremost energy experts, with 25 years of experience working across the entire energy value chain. He draws on a rare combination of industry, banking, consulting, and government experience to provide his clients with transaction, financial advisory, litigation, and valuation opinion services. Tom is a nationally recognized energy industry expert and is a frequent contributor on CNBC, Fox Business, and Bloomberg TV. In addition to his deep knowledge and experience in the energy industry, Tom is well respected for his expertise in derivatives pricing and valuation.

As an advisor, and in his corporate career, Tom has delivered more than $52 billion in transaction, valuation, restructuring, and litigation projects, most of which were energy related. He has also advised on, or executed, $13 billion in M&A and principal investment deals, and executed or valued more than $14 billion notional in derivative instruments. His expert litigation work has included shareholder disputes, business valuation, derivatives and hedging, bankruptcy and restructuring matters, and economic damages assessments.

Tom holds the prestigious CQF (Certificate in Quantitative Finance) and FRM (Financial Risk Management) designations. He received his BA from Yale University and MBA from Northwestern’s Kellogg School with various honors.
