APPOINTMENT OF CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICA REGIONAL DIRECTOR

Mireia Rovira has been appointed as Regional Director of AGN's Central and South America region at the latest regional meeting in Porto Allegre (Brazil) in November 2013.

Mireia has an extensive knowledge of the Central and South America region due to her detailed involvement in the region's activities for the past 2 years, including regular meetings with various member firms of the region. She is playing an active role in the membership development and has put in place various initiatives to enhance communications between member firms within the region as well as with other AGN Regions. She has also developed several marketing materials for AGN Central and South America.

Alberto Adaminas, Regional Chair of the AGN Central and South America Region says:

"I know that the contribution of Mireia as Regional Director will be very much beneficial to the region. Her job will be to assist the Regional Executive Committee in the operational tasks to achieve compliance with the proposed regional action plan which focuses on membership and business development and marketing and communication.

This designation is aligned with the latest International Board Meeting where it was decided that in each region will be appointed a Regional Director to assist the Executive Committee and report to CEO of AGN International'.
